EUROPEAN INTERVENTION.
In the midst of the glorious successes of the Federal cause which are stirring every corner of our land, it would be amusing, were it not a subject too painful for mirth, to contemplate the fretful excitement into which the governments of England and France are drawn by the distresses of their working population, and which, according to news by steamer Tuesday, have again stirred up prospects of a European intervention.

The distresses of a large class of their people both governments naturally desire to bring to an end. But they lack knowledge of us and confidence in our resources, and do not believe we can bring the conflict to that speedy close which is apparent to every intelligent observer of men and things on this side of the Atlantic. Had this distrust continued only during the gloomy months of winter, it would not have been deemed surprising, but that it should be manifested after the continual tide of the Federal victories of early Spring, in which, commencing with the battle of Mill Spring, and culminating with the fight at Pittsburg, our flag has suffered no one defeat, while the rebels have been driven back from Kentucky, Tennessee and Northern Virginia; their Atlantic and Gulf coast seized and occupied, and the Mississippi River almost recovered from their grasp—all of which successes have rebuffed Europe—indicates that England and France were well content to remain tranquil when there was a prospect of a division of our country, and only start with alarm when our apparent high stand as a nation is about to be resumed. This is not a just conclusion as to the intentions of those governments, but it is one which their ignorance of us causes to be borne out by facts.

Let England and France beware! If, in the face of the news now going forward, they resort to an intervention as cruel as it is unjust, they will add ten-fold to the miseries of their working people, and plunge millions of interests into pecuniary distress and ruin. They will embitter and prolong our war with the rebels, and then find peace far more distant and uncertain than it now appears to them. The rebels are now fighting with the last phib of desperation, every man and every dollar being called upon to sustain the struggle, while the North has as yet put forth no energies compared with those herculean efforts which will arise if England and France essay to crush us. If intervention be essayed they will find themselves as lamentably ignorant of our fighting resources in the future, as they have been in the past. Let it come, and a million more of the best of our people will start to arms, with no thought of pay, and asking but the plainest fare, while they indignantly strike for justice and their country. And such blows, in such a cause, will never lack the blessing of Providence, nor eventual success. But we believe, as well as the world at large, that such apprehensions are groundless for the present, and unneeded for the future.

The New York City Press.
The recent glorious news from Virginia occupies the attention of the papers, and even the Tribune relaxes its senseless clamor against McClellan and records him a degree of praise.

The Tribune.—The fighting of the grand army of the Potomac has been splendid, and the recent generalship of McClellan commands universal praise. An army of seventy or eighty thousand fighting retreating over its own ground without having fought and lost a pitched battle, has seldom been pushed back faster, or with smaller loss to its assailants, than the rebel host since it stole away from its intrenchments at Yorktown.

The Times.—The news which yesterday electrified the nation was second only in importance to that of the capture of New Orleans. The capture of Norfolk was the event of all others most eagerly desired by the loyal population of the country. The fate of the Merrimack is a type of the fate of the rebellion, which also rushes to desperation and to suicide.

The Herald.—Our triumphs on the land and water follow each other so rapidly, and with such accumulating force, that we may predict a month, or even a week, as the remaining remnants of life to that death-stricken monarchy known as the government of the "Confederate States of America."

The World.—The surrender of Norfolk is another magnificent step in the onward march of our victories. It now requires but one or two easy finishing strokes, and the rebels are driven from the whole sea coast, from all their navigable rivers, and from every place accessible to our vessels of war or gunboats. If they prolong the war it can only be in the interior, where they will not only be shut in from intercourse with the world, but will have lost all the seats of their workshops and manufacturing.

The Journal of Commerce.—Were this a foreign war, it might be regarded as rapidly approaching the end. If the President, backed by such a Congress, were to issue a Napoleonian appeal to the Union men of the South, and a warning to the rebels who continue in resistance, who should have faith in a speedy termination in the contest. But if Congress continue legislation calculated to estrange Union men in the Southern States, and make them doubt the good faith of the government in prosecuting the war, no man can foresee when or where the contest will have an end.

The Commercial Advertiser.—Norfolk is ours! No visions of the Merrimack will henceforth disturb our slumbers by night or excite fears during the night.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS.

A WORD TO ADVERTISERS.—We elsewhere state that Messrs. S. M. Pettigill & Co., of New York and Boston are our agents for the transaction of all kinds of business connected with this office, in those cities. These gentlemen have acted in this capacity for us during several years past, and we take pleasure in calling the attention of our friends in those cities to the fact. Their office is located in a central part of the city, (37 Park Row) where our own and some hundreds of other newspapers from various parts of the country, are kept on file for the convenience of advertisers, etc. These gentlemen are our only authorized agents in New York and we pay no attention to advertisements and subscriptions received from the numerous cheap penny agencies in the Metropolis. No orders will receive attention from this office hereafter, without they are accompanied with the cash, or come through S. M. P. & Co.'s hands. We have already lost extensively by bogus concerns and are compelled to use this safeguard for the future.

PRACTICAL PREACHING.—In one of our churches last Sunday, the clergyman noticed quite a number of his congregation including in a nap during the sermon, and took occasion to make some remarks about sleeping in church. Out-of-door laborers, he thought, were not so much to blame, as they were not accustomed to sitting still, while people of sedentary habits were expected to be more lively. A certain brother, whose habits were extremely sedentary, his business requiring him to sit still for ten hours in a day, who was sitting near the pulpit, and had, for the last half-hour been "nodding assent" to the words of the speaker, gave his approval by an extra nod, in which he lost his balance, and tumbled headlong into the aisle. The Reverend gentleman could scarcely suppress a smile at so forcible a "clinger" to his argument.

TWO POKERS escaped from the circus this morning, and it left the city without them. They were subsequently found by Mr. Edward Reed, who called at the City Clerk's Office and made an affidavit to the effect that he would take them to their owners at New Bedford.

DON'T forget to procure tickets to the Calico Dress Ball at Belle Vue Hall this evening. Tickets can be obtained of T. J. Weaver.

THE SPRAGUE ZOUAVES have contracted for uniforms for the whole company, and will come out for parade on election day.

ANOTHER SALE.—James G. Albrow's boat builder's shop on the corner of Long Wharf was sold at auction this morning to George W. Taylor for $30.

Editor's Book Table.
GODLEY'S LADY'S BOOK, for June, is on our table. This ornament of our contrabands, has become ensnared among our Penates, and commendation seems unnecessary. The simple announcement that Godley for June is out, is sufficient to secure a rush for it, especially by the ladies, who we are glad to say will find a much more desirable pattern of a hat, than in the last number.

AMERICAN SCULPTURE.—The London Times in a critical review of the sculpture in the great exhibition now open in London says:—
"In 1861, the 'Greek Slave,' the work of an American artist, carried off the honors of sculpture, and again on this occasion we think the laurels will be awarded to another American student, Mr. Story, who has sent two noble groups from his studio at Rome. One figure is that of Cleopatra, the other a boy. As yet nothing has come into the building which approaches them in originality of conception or power of execution."

In another article the Times says:—
"Another American artist Mr. Moniz, also sends one or two fine figures, though much behind those of his fellow-countryman, Mr. Story."

Freedom in the Territories.—Mr. Lovejoy's bill that passed the House so promptly on Monday, provides:—

"To the end that freedom may be and remain forever the fundamental law of the land, in all places whatsoever, so far as it lies within the power or depends upon the action of the government of the United States to make it so; therefore,

"Be it enacted, etc., That slavery or involuntary servitude in all cases whatsoever other than the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall henceforth and forever be prohibited forever in all the Territories of the United States now existing, or hereafter to be formed or acquired in any way."

GENERAL SUMMARY.
The department of Agriculture that has just been erected by Congress, is to be under the control of a $300,000 commissioner, who is to report to the President and Congress.

A new submarine cable has been constructed for use between Fort Monroe and Cherrystone. It will be laid during the present week. The new cable is much thicker than the other.

Mr. Smithson, the Washington banker who was arrested here several months since and sent to Fort Lafayette, has been released, and has returned to Washington.

The Richmond Examiner of the 2d says:—
"At the auction yesterday at Mr. Sampson Jones's grocery store, corner of Ninth and Main streets, butter sold at one dollar and twenty-five cents a pound."

The Chicago Tribune is much elated with the indications of returning prosperity. Unimproved lands, so long a drug in the market, are selling rapidly at fair prices. Well improved farms were in great demand during the months of March and April, and quite a number changed hands at remunerative prices.

The Bangor Whig of yesterday says that the foreign lumber trade is opening very favorably this spring. A large bark is now loading with deal for England. The ship Trimountain, of 1000 tons, arrived Monday from Boston, also to load with deal for Liverpool, and a large English ship was expected yesterday for a similar purpose.

The New York Leader remarks with reverence to the democratic address, that:—
"The democracy of the South—we speak more especially of the leaders—having given themselves to treason; can no more enter into future organizations than can the cotton they have burned in their madness and folly be woven into a texture."

The New York World, thinks that it is "not a subject of poignant regret that several of the vessels burned at New Orleans bore the British flag and were freighted for a breach of the blockade with British cotton. The sufferers must look for relief to their own sagacious and beneficent government, which, by recognizing the belligerent state, out of all claim for indemnity against ours."

PERSONAL.—A Washington telegram of last evening says:—
Governor Sprague, of Rhode Island left Old Point last evening and arrived here to-day. He expresses the opinion that the rebels will evacuate Richmond without trying the chances of a pitched battle.

The Norfolk Navy Yard.—Since the rebels have destroyed the government works at Portsmouth, it seems very questionable whether Uncle Sam should lay out any more of his money in that direction. The Hartford Courant says:—
"If the rebels of Norfolk do not want a navy yard in their vicinity, we trust Congress will accommodate them, and never appropriate a dollar to rebuild the ruined yard, or to expend on vessels under construction in that region."

We published a paragraph a few days since, stating that in a single manufactory of iron in England thirty tons of steel were expended per week. We are informed that the firm of J. W. Washburn & Co. in Worcester, Mass., use thirty-five tons of steel per week in manufacturing this fashionable article of dress, although their principal business is in making wire.

Governor Letcher says that the loss to the citizens of Virginia in the item of slave property alone far exceeds the loss from the destruction of cotton or any other species of property during the war. Counties in Virginia have been overrun, containing an aggregate slave population of 80,728, by the late census, and which, at a moderate valuation, is worth, in round numbers, $46,000,000.

The Newbern Progress counsels the torpentine makers to prepare for the speedy reopening of the ports of Beaufort and Newbern, and adds:—
"There are large quantities of this torpentine commodity in its crude state, now on hand in Carteret, Craven, Hyde and Beaufort counties, that need only to be made available for market. There are plenty of stills here in Newbern now lying idle, that could be used for that purpose."

The rebel prisoners are busy digging up torpedoes at Yorktown. It is said that the officer in charge replied to these rebels' complaint that it was not in accordance with the usages of war to put them to this service, that the planting of torpedoes was not a case laid down in the books of civilized warfare. New cases required new rules. The magazines in the rebel works have not yet been touched. The rebel officers will have the first experience of them, also.

Sixty companies of volunteers were offered by as many captains immediately upon the first call of the President, last year, to form the Indiana three months quota. Of these sixty captains, one (Law Wallace) is a Major General; four (Crittenden, Benton, Muroy, and Mansson) are Brigadier Generals; nine are Colonels; nine are Lieutenant-Colonels; three are Majors; and the remainder are Captains or are out of the service, some (not enumerated above) having attained the rank of field officers before being killed in action or incapacitated. The record, as it appears in the Indianapolis Journal, is a brilliant one.

The London Times makes a disclosure of the general designs of the Admiralty with respect to the British navy. The modern theory of armor will be applied to the sailing vessels of the navy, not entirely but partially. They will be protected at all points and will carry just so much of a shield as will save them from needless exposure, but not so much as would destroy their sailing qualities by the weight of the equipment. As to armament, they will carry two guns on a platform which will render their broadsides equivalent to those of the 17-gun ships.

Under the characteristic title of "Artemus Ward: His Book," The Great Western Humorist is about to open his show; a collection of those irresistible sketches whose hard, dry sense and quaint manner, have during the past two years kept the country in perpetual merriment. Coming at this particular time, when we have so much to be sad over, and so little to laugh at, this volume, with its comical illustrations, and good-natured satire will receive a hearty welcome. The writer is really a humorist of great power in his way, and his way is exclusively his own. An overwhelming majority must result for him (Ward).

FURTHER VICTORIES.

GEN. MCLELLAN AT CUMBERLAND.

FORTRESS MONROE, May 13.
Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War: We have Suffolk. It was taken last evening by Major Dodge. All quiet. McClellan's troops are at Cumberland. JOHN E. WOOL, Major General, &c.

THE WILLIAMSBURG BATTLE.

INACCURATE REPORTS OF THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

Williamsburg, May 13.—The reports of the killed and wounded in the battle here are very incorrect.

Lieut. Col. Wells, the Provost Marshal here, says the reports of the casualties in his regiment are very inaccurate. The same is true of the Excelsior Brigade, particularly in regard to the 1st regiment. Col. Dwight was not killed, but badly wounded, and is on his way to New York.

The list of captains is also wrong. Capt. Henry Brooks O'Reilly was killed, but the three other captains named with him as killed, viz: Bruun, Bugbee and Price, are missing, and reported to be prisoners in Richmond. Capt. Mahan was wounded, and Lieut. Hayer killed.

NAVAL FIGHT ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

Osire, May 13.—The Cincinnati was seriously damaged by frequent buttings from the rebel rams and was compelled to run into shoal water on the Tennessee shore where she grounded and has four feet of water on her gun-deck.

The government wrecking derrick has gone down to raise her, and it is supposed that she will be about to-day.

The Mound City did excellent service. She was struck in the same manner as the Cincinnati, but was not so badly damaged. She was also run into shoal water and settled to the bottom, but was pumped out and has arrived here for repairs.

During the heat of the engagement one of the rebel gunboats got hold of one of the federal bomb ketches and was towing her away, when the Benton bore down upon her and after a brief skirmish compelled the rebels to release their prize.

There have been no arrivals from Pittsburg since Sunday.

Slave Emancipation in Cuba.—A sugar planter in Cuba writes to a friend in New York that, after being a good deal around among his fellow planters, he has discovered, with some surprise, that the leading and intelligent ones are in favor of the emancipation of slavery in the island—a gradual emancipation. They reason thus: That this measure being the hobby of the day, Spain will be hurried into it sooner or later, and that they had better take the lead in it and water it in fact, the "Nota of Supervisors, a new sort of authority lately established, have presented a memorial to the Queen of Spain recommending that measure.

When Capt. Boggs was seeking a command he went to the President, who asked him, "What do you wish to do?" His characteristic reply was, in substance, "I want to bombard Charleston and sow it with salt." You shall have a vessel," said the President. The Secretary of the Navy gave him the choice of any vessel not yet assigned to a commander. He went through the ship yards and chose the Varuna, whose name and that of her brave commander are henceforth imperishable in our naval annals.

A Lynchburg (Va.) despatch of the 8th inst., says:—
Jackson was still at Stanton at last account. A report was brought here by an officer of Mississippi regiment that a detachment constituting the advance corps of Breckinridge's army at Salt Run Gap had been driven in by the enemy, and that a battle was impending. We received intelligence by letter yesterday to the effect that our troops were falling back from Greenbrier to Boesack's Depot, in Roanoke county.

The Military Committee of the Senate yesterday reported the charge of drunkenness against Gen. Smith to be without foundation and unsupported by the slightest evidence; further, that he is one of the first officers of his rank, always ready and able to perform promptly any duty assigned to him.

The entire press of the country has bestowed upon this work the most unanimously the highest encomiums. The Louisville Journal of October 8th, 1861, says of it—
"It is a work of the highest merit, a valuable, complete history, and logic as well as chronological dependence, leaves nothing to be desired. We rank the value of this work above price. It is a work of the highest merit, and is entirely the greatest work of the kind published in a work the lack of which would deprive posterity a cause of special regret."

to our day and generation. Let everyone subscribe for it.

It is a book that should be in every loyal family.
It is a necessity for present information; it in future days will be read with interest children and grandchildren, as a memorial of the present most important era of National History.

Vol. 2 will be issued in May, and in September, 1882. It will be large and well done also, as heretofore, in weekly periodicals, and will contain parts at 50 cents. For
